Dr. Steve Porter, forensic psychologist to speak at AGM

CSI is extremely excited to announce that Steve Porter, a widely published and frequent speaker, has agreed to speak at the CII 2008 AGM, in Halifax, NS.

Dr. Porter is an Associate Professor and director of the forensic certificate program in the Department of Psychology at Dalhousie University. Prior to his appointment at Dalhousie, he received a B.Sc. from Acadia University and a doctorate in forensic psychology (1998) from the University of British Columbia. During his training, he worked at Mountain Institution (a medium security federal prison), the Forensic Psychiatric Institute of British Columbia, the British Columbia Board of Parole, and a Victim Services organization in Vancouver. Dr. Porter now works in the area of psychology and law as an educator, researcher, and practitioner. He has published research and theoretical articles on various forensic issues including credibility assessment, memory for childhood abuse, deception detection, psycho-

The Plaid File

Nova Scotia Plaid Police are recruiting the Council of International Investigators (CII) to form a special Tartan Task Force in an effort to track down the mysterious Prince of Plaid who is terrorizing the city and staining the fabric of our society. This tartan tyrant is responsible for thousands of fabric addicts who are weaving their way through our beloved city and selling bad plaid to innocent bystanders. These people do not have a license to kilt and it is our mission to shut down each and every underground plaid lab, round up these fabric felons and put an end to this plaid pandemonium. We must ensure these weaving thieves to not get off Scot free. All interested investigators will be asked to report to the Plaid Pentagon in Halifax, Nova Scotia on Tuesday, August 26, 2008 at 1900 hrs to help us put an end to this plaid prostitution. Don't be amongst the missing at the august meeting of professional investigators!

Further details to follow.

Marcus Jonus - He came, he ran, he conquered!

By Mark Jones

Well I did it ! I completed the Lisboa Meia Maratona last Sunday the 16th of March. We arrived (Richard, Alvinho and Me) around 10am after crossing the river Tegus by ferry from downtown Lisboa to the assembly point at the beginning of the famous and quite beautiful April the 25th Bridge (the same designer as the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco) that spans the river Tegus. This is such a spectacular way to enter the wonderful city of Lisboa, and the atmosphere was great; reminiscent of carnival with samba music, a DJ, costumes and 38,000 other runners - all of us waiting for the OFF !

Some were limbering up, some dancing, some stretching, while the elite runners (i.e. most of the world famous distance runners such as Haile Gebreselassie, Lorna Kiplagat etc) were of course at the very front at the start line. With about a 50 metre gap between, then came us, about 3,000 marathon runners. After us, with another suitable gap, came 34,000 + mini marathon/fun runners, all being held back by stewards and officials. It was WILD, and then we

From the editor

By the time you read this, Fred and I will be soaking up some sun and some sand in the Virgin Islands for ten whole days! This is courtesy of Steve Kirby's generous Silent Auction donation last year of his wonderful resort spot and also, of course to Fred's wallet for ponying up the cash!

Which brings me to my subject at hand. This year at the AGM, we again plan to hold the Silent Auction and would ask that you start thinking now about some unique item you could bring to enter into the auction. It is always such fun to watch Jimmy Gahan auction off the more interesting items and, of course, if you have something, or like Steve, somewhere, that you plan to throw up on the auction block to raise some funds, let us know so we can give Jimmy a chance to work on his patter.

As you can see, The Councillor has gone to a monthly publication format. The longer newsletters were getting so large that a lot of people could not receive them on their email—they either took way too much time to download or the files were so big that some people's mailboxes could not accept them. This doesn't mean you can stop forwarding your news though, as actually, we need your news even more now than we did before, as we seem to be putting one of these together quite frequently now!

You may have noticed some of the "Member" spotlights—please don't hesitate in forwarding your profile along with a photo so that everyone can get a chance to know each other better. In particular, if you are a newer member and have not had a spotlight published in the newsletter about you, it is a great opportunity to tell everyone more about yourself, your business and your background.

As well, if you have a specialty or news from your area of the world or your family, send us your stories and photos.

Take care and if you're really lucky next month's issue might have a photo of us living it up in the Virgin Islands. Thanks, Steve, for making it possible.

-Trish Dehmel

Trivial Pursuit—Burke style!

By Jack Burke

I received last week at ciimembers@googlegroups.com the first correct answer to the Investigative Trivia Question II from member Jay Groob. Jay's correct answer was that French soldier & criminal Eugene Francois VIDOCQ founded the first private detective agency in 1833 and employed ex-convicts. Congratulations Jay. A special gift awaits your arrival Jay at this year's AGM in Halifax. Thanks for playing.

The French sleuth's name is the inspiration for The Vidocq Society. Their worldwide members work on real (cold case) mysteries. The Society meets for their discussions monthly in Philadelphia, PA USA, the backyard to three or four CII members. Incidentally, one Philly investigator, Question I winner Jim Carino, was quick on the trigger again. Jim had the correct answers again this month.

Continent member Fritz Hebach chimed in with info on early US PI Allen Pinkerton's strike-breaking activities. Graham Dooley offered his guess - his grand daddy Squire Dooley of Nottingham. Joel Auribault offered his insights on another Frenchman Mr. Delavaux. PI Museum proprietor/USA senior member Ben Harroll said he was going to research Joel's tip. Roger Schmedlen in Michigan reported knowing where the bones-are-buried, that is that the first female PI is buried next to Pinkerton's final resting place. These responses and more from others were welcome.

Remember to send me your question offerings for next month's quiz, Investigative Trivia Question III, and receive a gift in Halifax at the AGM. -Jack & Alana Burke

News from China

By Hai Yang

After the worst winter in half a century for Chinese south cities, spring is finally coming. In such a prosperous season, we would like to bring to your attention some positive news about our investigation industry, which may be helpful for your business in China.

- International development brings national enterprise; not only the commercial risks, but also the country risks including war, recapture, default and foreign exchange restrictions. Recently, China Expert & Credit Insurance Corporation issued the newest version of Country Risks Analysis Report. This report provides Chinese enterprises a full-scale risk analysis report on international investment. This newly published Country Risks Analysis Report collects risk analysis reports of 91 countries and classifies the risk of all the sovereignties except China into 9 classes, from class one to nine.
- Morning Edition news: People's Bank of China issued an announcement claiming that Office Procedure of Payment Credit Information (Draft of Consult) begins to take effect with the public from now on. The procedure will be hopefully completed in March of next year. The behavior of enterprises or individuals presenting fake cheques for payment would be recorded in the credit system of People's Bank of China.

- The Beijing Notary Association now has a website. The website provides identification service of notaries. There is a notice board on the official website which discloses the notarizations processed with fake materials. The community can check the information of any notary office and any notary of Beijing from the website, and then call the notary office for verification in order to prevent loss.

Though there has not been any comprehensive credit mechanism and risk management system in China for a long time, the government is making efforts to improve the status quo to create a credible society for its citizens.

We are also glad to assist you in your successful business. And if there is anything we can help in China, please let us know.

Lisa M. (Lajoie) Marek

WORCESTER— Lisa M. (Lajoie) Marek, 47, of Worcester, and formerly of West Boylston and Sterling, died Monday, March 24, 2008 at St. Vincent Hospital after a short illness surrounded by her loving family.

Her husband, Chester B. Marek II, died in 1995. She leaves a son, Chester B. Marek III and his fiancée Heather N. Landry; a daughter, Angela Lee Marek, a grandson, Chester L. Marek, all of Worcester; her parents, Ray and Coralie "Coco" (Guertin) Lajoie of Northbridge; a brother John M and his wife Susan J. Lajoie of Sterling; a sister Lynn M. and her husband Timothy C. Ellsworth of Oxford; a nephew Jason M. Lajoie, and four nieces: Jessica L. and Jackie Lajoie, and Chelsea M. and Elizabeth "Libby" Ellsworth. Her sister, Lori Ann Lajoie died in 2001.

Lisa was born in Worcester, and attended West Boylston High School and Johnson & Wales College in Rhode Island.

Lisa was a kind and loving wife and mother, and a wonderful daughter and sister, who loved life and the seashore.

Lisa's family is most grateful to the doctors and nurses at St. Vincent Hospital, especially in the critical care unit, for their compassionate care of Lisa. Calling hours at the Athy Memorial Home, 111 Lancaster St., Worcester, were Wednesday, March 26 from 5 to 8 p.m. The funeral was held Thursday, March 27th from the funeral home with a Mass at 10 a.m. in St. Paul's Cathedral, 38 High St., Worcester. Burial in High Plains Cemetery, Oakdale, will be private.

In lieu of flowers, donations in Lisa's memory are suggested to the Seven Hills Foundation, 81 Hope Ave., Worcester 01603.

He came, he ran, he conquered!

Mark Jones gives a happy but tired salute as he crosses the finish line on a 21 km run in Lisbon, Portugal.

were OFF! We ran across the bridge, chipping along not at all the pace I have been used to during training, going slow and dodging people. I was always being knocked here and there, but enjoyed every second of it! We stayed to the right hand side of the bridge so as to see the city as we crossed the 4km span while TV helicopters buzzed around us. I was experiencing such great feelings!

Then we started the spiral down towards the foreshore where the race was split: the 21km runners (that included ME how fab is that!) filtered to the left and the 8km mini/fun runners to the right. At last I had SPACE and was able to get into my pace at the 6km mark so with only another 15km to go ! hey ho off we go along the foreshore under a cloudy sky, 15°C - SMASHING! I ran with Richard and Alvinho past Flamenco dancers, DJ's and live singers while people stretched out alongside offering oranges, water, power drinks, and bananas. Suddenly I spied Haile Gebreselassie, the worlds fastest Marathon runner on his final 5km, running along the opposite side! By the way, he finished the course in 55 minutes - AMAZING!

Do you know, when you see these athletes up close and in the flesh doing what they do best, it is truly an amazing sight. The words beautiful, elegant, majestic, powerful, graceful all come to mind as they pass you like gazelles in flight ! Then you come back to your reality and your pace which by now is comfortable, steady and feeling good. Onward we gowent turning left past the beautiful Praca Commercial and into downtown around Praca Soa Pedro then back onto the foreshore, with more water being offered, and then I did it ! The thing I always remember from watching marathons on the television! I grabbed a water bottle from one of the sea of arms waving at me, unscrewed the top, drank some, poured some over my head and then dashed the remains to the curb with gusto! How very marathon is that dears!

So on we go up to Lux around the flyover then back down the other side of the road, this time with the river on my left and also knowing that I've passed the half way mark so I'm keeping an eye out for the 15k board now dear! My legs were starting to feel it now and I thought of Ze, a wonderful young man at the college for whom I'm raising funds. Ze is profoundly mentally disabled and so I told myself while I was running that this was for him and I will finish this-that thought gave me a lift.

By Ester Polly

The notorious Prince of Plaid has struck again, terrorizing yet another Halifax widow and making away with her most prized plaid possessions, including a shower curtain, 11 pairs of slippers, a toaster oven cover, and her beloved Nova Scotia woven wallpaper and bedspread. "He ripped the blanket right out of my hands while I was sleeping!!" cried Ms. Muriel MacPherson-Dorfin. "I'll never feel safe in my own home again if he isn't caught...why hasn't he been found yet?" Why indeed, asks this reporter. Perhaps the Prince of Plaid has become too POWERFUL for the Plaid Police?? Time will tell.....

The 15km mark came and went, then I saw the 20km marker coming up and remembered that I had set myself a private goal that I would love to pass that mark in under 2 hours. I passed it at 1:59:23 so that brought a smile to my face. By this time I had lost Richard and Alvinho and with only 1km to go the stunningly beautiful 12th century Monisterio Jeronimo started to appear on my right. THE FINISH! at last! And there was Roy waiting with his long lens to capture the sight of Me, Mark Jones crossing the line at 2 hours & six minutes after running 21 kilometres! FAN-BLOODY-TASTIC!

I have to say that it was truly an AMAZING experience and one that I want to feel and taste again very soon. I have been walking, bathing, and sleeping with the MEDAL on at all times and am still giggling to myself that after 49 years, I have finally found a sport that I can get totally lost in, thoroughly enjoy and most importantly, raise money for a project to make such a difference to some very special people.

So my friends, I thank you from the bottom of my heart for your donations, support and words of encouragement that helped me make this achievement possible. Please make sure that you turn in your pledge money and reference your name when doing the transfer so as I know who it is from.

Next week we will be meeting with the college to present the first draft of the Sensory Garden Project so I will keep you all informed of the progress.
