

CII Code Of Ethics

- ◆ To conduct myself in my profession with honesty, sincerity, integrity, fidelity, morality and good conscience in all dealings with my clients.
- ◆ To preserve forever my clients' confidences under any and all circumstances except where the clients' interest is contrary to criminal law.
- ◆ To conduct all my investigations within the bounds of legality, morality, and professional ethics.
- ◆ To refuse to employ the methods of wiretapping in any form in those countries where it is unlawful.
- ◆ To retain in the strictest confidence every facet of my clients' interest from inquiries by third parties especially in matters involving national notoriety or publicity.
- ◆ To cooperate with all recognized and responsible law enforcement and governmental agencies in matters within the realm of their jurisdiction.
- ◆ To counsel my clients against any illegal or unethical course of action.
- ◆ To explain to the full satisfaction of my client all fees and charges in his case and to render a factual report.
- ◆ To retain my own professional reputation and that of my fellow investigators and professional associates.
- ◆ To insure that all my employees adhere to this code of ethics.

Council of International Investigators

Selected elite professional investigators located around the world

The Council of International Investigators (CII) Who are we?

Formed in 1955 as an elite professional group of investigators, CII is dedicated to fostering integrity, ethics and mutual trust amongst the selected members.

Our goal is to encourage association between agencies; provide information concerning the proper standards of practise; operating ethically and with integrity on the behalf of clients; and to provide enhanced quality of service through educational programs.

The Council has expanded globally, through careful selective screening of applicants, maintaining the quality of members rather than quantity.

Membership is a privilege reserved for individuals who add dignity and prestige to the Council as a whole.

CII—Navigating International Investigative Boundaries

- ◆ Members must strictly adhere to the CII Code of Ethics, widely approved by law enforcement agencies, legislatures and public officials.
- ◆ Members are well versed in international privacy laws.
- ◆ It assures that CII clients receive the highest professional efforts in the pursuit of their interests.
- ◆ The Council has become universally accepted as the spokesman for ethical investigators throughout the world.
- ◆ Members of CII have immediate access to investigators of a very high calibre, throughout the world, secure in the knowledge that the careful screening and selection process means their contacts are among the best in the profession.
- ◆ Many CII members are recognized experts in various aspects of their profession, and are readily available to lend their expertise to an investigation.

CII promotes global co-operation

- ◆ CII members can be found in virtually ever corner of the globe giving every CII member “an investigator on the ground” to assist them and their clients in navigating local customs and regulations, and obtaining the results they need.
- ◆ Members of the Council meet regularly throughout the world to attend training programs provided by the most respected authorities in their fields, and to discuss global security and investigative issues.
